Privacy Statement

Our success depends upon the contributions of industry experts such as yourself. This requires that we treat information we obtain from a research participant with discretion. We do not disclose any information that might reveal the identity of the participant or might harm that person or group.

As a contributor to our research, you can expect complete confidentiality. Information collected will be reported only in an aggregate form and will be used only for research purposes.

Email addresses or other contact information obtained as a result of this research will not be sold, traded or otherwise transferred to any other party, and any information obtained will not be used for any purposes other than research.

Privacy Policy

Health Strategies Insights' Research Panel Privacy Policy sets forth privacy practices regarding all personal information collected, used, transmitted or maintained by the panel and related to your participation in the research panel, based on the following practices:

- Your privacy and the privacy of your answers will be respected and maintained.
- Your name, address, phone number, e-mail, personal information and individual responses will not be disclosed to anyone outside the research project without your permission.
- You will always be informed in advance if an interview is to be audio recorded or video recorded (as in the case of telephone or in-person studies). Additionally, you will be told of the intended use of the recording.
- Upon request, you will be informed of the privacy policy that applies to your participation in the research study.
- The researcher will be identified to you. You will be told the name of the research organization and the general nature of the survey.
- You will not be sold anything or asked for money under the guise of research.
- You will be contacted at reasonable times, but if the time is inconvenient, you may ask to be re-contacted at a more convenient time.
- Your decision to participate in a study, answer specific questions, be re-contacted at another time or discontinue your participation will be respected.
- You are assured that the highest standards of professional conduct will be upheld in the collection and reporting of information you provide.
